THE GAP

A 90-day rite of passage for the ones who know something is missing. Done together. Done wild.

90	3	10–20	3	1
DAYS	COUNTRIES	PEOPLE	PHASES	FEELING

"Most people will look at this and say no. That's the point. This is for the ones who feel the gap between who they are and who they're pretending to be — and are ready to do something about it."

THE PROGRAM

Wild every day. Together the whole way.

This is not a retreat. It is not a therapy program. It is not structured personal development dressed up as adventure.

It is 90 days of doing the hardest, most alive things imaginable — in places that strip away everything ordinary — with a group of people chasing the same feeling. The feeling that you are actually living. The feeling most people get a glimpse of and then spend the rest of their lives trying to find again.

THE GAP puts you in that feeling every single day. And then shows you how to carry it home.

AT A GLANCE — 90 DAYS

DAYS	PHASE	LOCATION	VIBE	HIGHLIGHTS
1–30	Decondition	New Zealand	Strip everything. Get wild.	Wilderness overnight, bungee, skydive, whitewater, Maori, glacier, surf
31–57	Encounter	Bali + Thailand	Water mastery + combat.	Freediving, breathwork, Muay Thai camp, cliff jumping, temples
58–90	Return	Colombia + Costa Rica	Give it back. Build the school.	Paragliding, Amazon, youth service, 7-day prototype

THREE PHASES

PHASE 1 · NZ

Decondition

Get as far from ordinary life as the earth allows. Replace comfort with cold water, hard terrain, and the kind of adrenaline that makes every social mask drop. You learn who you actually are when survival is on the line.

PHASE 2 · SE ASIA

Encounter

Meet masters. Go underwater on one breath. Fight in a ring. Train with people who have built their entire lives around one discipline. You absorb what commitment looks like from the inside.

PHASE 3 · LATAM

Return

Take everything you found and give it back. Serve communities. Lead the group through a week-long prototype. Turn what you lived into something that others can step into.

GROUP DYNAMICS

This program runs with 10–20 people. The group is not just company — it is part of the program. You will push each other, fail in front of each other, laugh hard, move through genuinely hard things together, and build friendships that come from shared experience at depth. The group makes the individual. The individual makes the group stronger.

01 — Every Morning

COLD EXPOSURE TOGETHER

Ocean, river, or cold shower — every morning as a group before anything else. Competitive, loud, chaotic. The one non-negotiable that turns strangers into a crew within a week.

02 — Every Day

ONE WILD THING

Every single day has at least one experience that is genuinely wild — something most people would never do, something that requires your full presence. No filler days.

03 — Weekly

SOLO TIME

Once a week, every person gets a significant block of time completely alone in nature. This is the most important part of the program for most people — and the part most people are most afraid of.

04 — Every Evening

COME TOGETHER

Group dinner every night. Campfires when possible. No phones at the table. Stories come out here that wouldn't come out anywhere else. No format — just real people eating together.

05 — Personal

REFLECT YOUR WAY

Journaling, talking, running, sitting — whatever works for you. There is no mandatory reflection format. You process how you process. What matters

06 — Always

SHOW UP FOR THE GROUP

You are responsible for your own experience and accountable to the group. If someone is struggling, you notice. If someone needs pushing, you push. The group takes care of the group.

is that you don't just move through these experiences without letting them land.

MONTH ONE · DAYS 1–30 · PHASE 1: DECONDITION

New Zealand

South Island · Northland · Queenstown · West Coast

The group arrives strangers. Cold water, hard terrain, and shared adrenaline turn them into something else. New Zealand strips everything down to the signal.

DURATION	GROUP SIZE	THEME
30 Days	10–20	Decondition. Strip the noise. Find the baseline.

SERVICE

Maori Youth Outdoor Program

WEEK 1 Arrival + First Wild

Strangers become a crew

DAY 01

Auckland → South Island

GROUP

ARRIVAL — THE GROUP MEETS

MORNING

Group lands in Auckland. No sightseeing, no airport hotel. Fleet of vans drives south immediately. You are going somewhere remote.

AFTERNOON

Arrive at a remote coastal property — a camp, not a resort. Gear unpacked, rooms sorted. First cold exposure as a group: everyone in the sea before dinner. Competitive, chaotic, freezing. The first shared thing.

EVENING

Group dinner on the property. Campfire. Opening circle: everyone says one sentence about why they're here. No speeches. No performance. One sentence.

DAY 02

South Island Coast

ADVENTURE

DAWN RUN + CLIFF JUMP + OPEN WATER SWIM

DAWN

5:30 AM group cold ocean plunge. Then a 5km coastal run together — no one gets left behind. The first time you run with 15 strangers toward a cold ocean will feel like something.

MORNING

Cliff jumping — find the local spots. Start small, go bigger. Group watches, cheers, goes together. The person who goes first every time is learning something about themselves. So is the person who goes last.

AFTERNOON

Open water group swim — 1km. No stopping. Stick together. This is not a race. It is a group moving through water as one thing.

DAY 03

South Island Trails

ADVENTURE

TRAIL RUN + OVERNIGHT PACK-IN

MORNING

Cold ocean. Pack for overnight. Each person carries their own gear plus shares on group equipment. The logistics teach something: who steps up, who waits to be told, who thinks ahead.

FULL DAY

Trail run / hike into a backcountry campsite — 15–20km. Some will lead, some will suffer. The group moves at the group's pace. If someone falls back, two people fall back with them.

EVENING

Camp together in the wilderness. No wifi. Cook on fire. Sleep under the southern sky — the Milky Way here is something most of the group has never seen. Sleep on the ground. This is the first real night.

DAY 04

Backcountry Camp

GROUP

WILDERNESS DAY — NO AGENDA

MORNING

Cold stream. Group breakfast cooked together over fire. Slow morning in the wilderness — no rush, no schedule. Let the land have you for a few hours.

AFTERNOON

Split into pairs: each pair spends 3 hours exploring, climbing, swimming — wherever feels right. No phones. No goal. Just two people in wild country figuring out how to move together.

EVENING

Pack out. Return to base. Campfire night — stories from the pairs. What did you find?

DAY 05

South Island

SOLO

FIRST SOLO — 4 HOURS ALONE

MORNING

Cold ocean together, then the group disperses. Every person finds their own spot — at least 500 meters from anyone else. No phone. No book. No agenda. 4 hours alone in New Zealand wilderness.

THE EXPERIENCE

Some people will sleep. Some will explore. Some will sit. Some will cry and not know why. All of it is fine. The solo hour shows you things about yourself that no amount of activity ever reaches.

AFTERNOON

Regroup. Group debrief — whoever wants to share, shares. No pressure. What came up in the silence? What surprised you? This conversation is always one of the best ones of the whole program.

> WHY SOLO TIME
>
> You cannot find yourself in a group. The group gives you energy, momentum, belonging. The solo gives you truth. Both are necessary. The program alternates between them deliberately.

DAY 06

Coastal Town

ADVENTURE

LEARN TO SURF — GROUP CHALLENGE

FULL DAY

Group surf lesson. Beginner waves. Everyone starts at zero. The group suddenly has something in common: falling down and laughing about it. Competition emerges naturally — who can stand up first, who can ride longest. Let it.

THE INSIGHT

Falling in water has zero ego attached. You fall, you laugh, you paddle back. Notice how different this feels from failing at something at home where everyone watches and remembers. What if normal life worked like this?

EVENING

Fish and chips on the beach. Group dinner in the sand. Stories about who ate it hardest. This is what the evenings become.

DAY 07

South Island

REST + PLAY

FREE DAY — EXPLORE, RECOVER, CONNECT

MORNING

Cold ocean as always. Then: totally unstructured morning. Sleep in. Read. Move. Explore. Do whatever you want. The absence of agenda is its own kind of wild.

AFTERNOON

Group organizes their own activity — vote and go. Whatever the group decides. First time you collectively choose something. Notice how the group moves when there's no leader directing.

EVENING

Group dinner, full house. Week 1 check-in: go around the table — one word for how Week 1 has been. No explanation required.

WEEK 2 Maori + Water Mastery

Ancient knowledge + the ocean

DAY 08

South Island → Northland

TRANSIT + WILD

DRIVE NORTH — SWIM EVERY RIVER

FULL DAY

Road trip north in the vans. Group rule for the drive: every time you cross a river or see a waterfall, you stop and everyone swims. No exceptions. This turns a transit day into an adventure. You'll stop 4–8 times.

THE RULE

If the van stops, everyone goes in. No watching from the bank. This is the day the group develops its first real culture — the one that says: when we stop, we go.

EVENING

Arrive Northland. Cook dinner together at the accommodation. Early night — tomorrow is one of the most important days of the program.

DAY 09

Waipoua Forest

KEY DAY

WAIPOUA FOREST — MAORI GUIDE, ANCIENT TREES, WHAKAPAPA

FULL DAY

Full day with a Maori guide in Waipoua Forest. The kauri trees here are 2,000 years old. Your guide teaches the group about whakapapa — the concept that you are not just yourself, you are all the people who came before you. You carry your ancestors in your body. You exist in a line, not alone.

THE ENCOUNTER

This is the first real encounter of the program — a person who carries a completely different understanding of selfhood. The western self is individual. The Maori self is relational. Both are true. The group sits with a 2,000-year-old tree and feels the weight of that.

EVENING

Campfire. Open conversation: what did the forest show you? No facilitator. Just the group talking in the dark.

WHY THIS DAY EXISTS

Before you can find yourself, you need to understand what "self" actually means. The Maori answer is radically different from what school taught the group. This day plants a question that grows for the rest of 90 days.

DAY 10

Bay of Islands

WATER

GROUP OCEAN KAYAK + SNORKEL + NIGHT SWIM

MORNING

4-hour group kayak through the Bay of Islands — 144 islands to paddle between. No motorized support. If someone falls out, the group stops and helps them back in. Racing is allowed and encouraged.

AFTERNOON

Snorkel the reef — 1 hour underwater as a group. Buddy system. Explore. Find the wild things. The ocean rewards going deeper.

NIGHT

Night swim in bioluminescent water if conditions allow — the bay has it. Swimming through glowing blue water at night with 15 people is an experience that belongs to no category.

DAY 11

Northland

SERVICE

MAORI YOUTH PROGRAM — LEAD A MORNING

MORNING

The group runs a morning session with a local Maori youth outdoor program. The group designs and leads it — movement, games, a trail, swimming. No one tells you how. Figure it out together. Lead something together for the first time.

AFTERNOON

Play. Get competitive with the local kids. Let them beat you. This is not charity — it is two groups of young people spending a day together. The difference is invisible when you're actually in it.

EVENING

Group debrief: what does it feel like to give something without keeping score? What came up?

SERVICE RULE

Every service moment in this program follows the same principle: show up, move alongside people, leave them feeling more capable than when you arrived. Not charity. Not saving. Just showing up fully and being human together.

DAYS 12–13

West Northland Coast

SURF

TWO DAYS OF SURF — GROUP COMPETITION

DAY 12

Full group surf session — building on Day 6. Everyone is getting better. Natural competition: who progresses fastest? Who helps others? Who's coaching from the beach vs. in the water? Character reveals itself in optional moments.

DAY 13

Group surf competition — informal, self-organized. Points for style, for commitment, for the worst wipeout, for helping someone stand up. The awards are made up. The joy is real.

EVENING

Beach bonfire. Someone cooks. Everyone eats. The group is not strangers anymore.

DAY 14

Northland

FREE DAY

EXPLORE — WHEREVER THE GROUP DECIDES

FULL DAY

Fully unstructured. Group votes on something and goes. Or splits up and reconvenes. The trust is building enough now that people can move in smaller clusters and come back changed by different things.

OPTIONS

Dune sandboarding, sea kayaking, beach cricket, bike the coast, find a waterfall, do nothing on the beach. The group decides. The group goes.

EVENING

Week 2 debrief dinner. How is the group different from Day 1? What's surprised you about someone else?

WEEK 3

Queenstown — Truth Serum

Adrenaline as an instrument

> In the three seconds before you jump, your mind cannot maintain a story about who you are. The performance drops. The social mask falls. Only the real you exists at the edge. The group watches each other be real — and nothing builds trust faster.

DAY 16

Kawarau Bridge

MILESTONE

THE BUNGEE — GROUP WATCHES EACH OTHER JUMP

THE SETUP

AJ Hackett Kawarau Bridge. The original bungee. 43 meters. The whole group goes — one by one, while everyone else watches from the bridge and banks below. No one skips. No one is excluded.

THE GROUP ELEMENT

Watching your friends at the edge — the fear, the hesitation, the moment they go — is as powerful as doing it yourself. You see who they actually are in that three-second window. The group sees each other differently after this.

AFTER

Group lunch together. The energy is high, the conversation is honest. What came up for you? What did you see in the person next to you?

DAY 17

Shotover River

ADRENALINE

SHOTOVER WHITEWATER — GROUP RAFTS

FULL DAY

Shotover River Class IV whitewater in group rafts. Split into crews of 6–8. The crew that works together most effectively survives the cleanest. You'll find out who leads under pressure, who panics, who becomes strangely calm when everything is chaotic.

COMPETITION

Race format between boats where the river allows. Bragging rights only. The energy in the boat when you're working together against the water is one of the best group experiences available.

EVENING

Group dinner. Tell the story of the day. Reenactments encouraged.

DAY 18

15,000 ft, Queenstown

MILESTONE

THE SKYDIVE — 15,000 FEET TOGETHER

MORNING

The whole group skydives. 15,000 feet, tandem. The plane ride up is 20 minutes with 15 people in varying states of controlled terror. The energy in that plane is unlike anything. Then the door opens.

FREEFALL

60 seconds at 200km/h. In freefall there is no past and no future. There is only now. Most people have never been fully present for 60 consecutive seconds. This is what fully alive feels like at maximum intensity.

AFTER

The group reconvenes on the ground. The conversation that happens naturally in the hour after everyone has jumped is one of the most honest conversations the group will ever have. Let it run.

DAY 19

Queenstown

ADRENALINE

CANYON SWING + VIA FERRATA + LUGE

MORNING

Canyon Swing — 60-meter free-fall, group watches each other. Same dynamic as the bungee but different because you choose your jump position. The choice is part of it.

AFTERNOON

Via ferrata climbing in the Remarkables — technical movement on real rock. Group belays each other. Physical problem-solving at altitude. Your body knows more than you think.

EVENING

Queenstown Skyline Luge — fast, stupid fun. Sometimes the program needs to just be fun. Let it be. Race each other. The person who wins gloats appropriately.

DAY 20

The Remarkables

MOUNTAIN

SUMMIT TOGETHER — EARN THE VIEW

FULL DAY

Group hike to a summit in the Remarkables — 4–5 hours up. No one goes faster than the slowest person. The group moves as one. At the top: everyone arrives together, sits for 30 minutes, no phones, just the view and each other.

THE RULE

The view belongs to everyone who earned it. You don't get the summit photo if you left people behind to get it. This is a principle the group needs to internalize.

EVENING

Big group dinner in Queenstown. Week 3 has been the most intense. Let the evening be long and relaxed.

DAY 21

Queenstown Region

SOLO

SOLO DAY — QUEENSTOWN ON YOUR OWN

FULL DAY

Everyone disperses alone for the full day. No group plan. Go wherever feels right — the town, the mountains, the lake, a café, nothing. The group has been intense. The solo day lets the individual breathe inside the experience.

OPTIONS

Paraglide alone, kayak the lake, find a trail no one else knows about, sit by the water for four hours, talk to locals, explore, rest. Your call entirely.

EVENING

Everyone reconvenes for dinner. The solo stories are always different and always good.

WEEK 4 West Coast + Departure

The wild edge of the world

DAY 22

Westland

GLACIER

FOX GLACIER + ICE HIKE

FULL DAY

Group hike on Fox Glacier — crampons on, ice underfoot, blue crevasses, the sound of a 10,000-year-old thing moving. These glaciers are disappearing faster than almost anywhere on earth. Walk on something irreplaceable.

THE WEIGHT

Someone in the group will ask the guide how long the glacier has left. Let the answer land. The world is doing extraordinary things that are being lost. You are here, in the middle of one of them. Feel that.

EVENING

Cold river swim on the drive back. Because of course.

DAY 23

West Coast Highway

WILD SWIM

EVERY RIVER — GROUP ROAD TRIP RULE

FULL DAY

Group rule: every river the vans cross on the West Coast highway, everyone swims. The west coast has rivers of impossible blue — glacial runoff, cold enough to stop your breath. Stop at every one. Everyone in. No exceptions.

THE DAY

This is one of the most joyful days of the whole program. No agenda. No goals. Just a van full of people swimming in every body of water they encounter. The West Coast will deliver 6–10 stops.

EVENING

Arrive Milford Sound area. Sleep hard.

DAY 24

Milford Sound

MILESTONE

MILFORD SOUND — GROUP KAYAK THROUGH WATERFALLS

FULL DAY

Group kayak through Milford Sound — one of the most beautiful places on earth. Waterfalls come down directly into the kayaks. Seals. Dolphins if lucky. Fiords so deep the water is black. Paddle 6 hours together.

THE MOMENT

At some point during the paddle, the group will all stop, floating on the water in silence, surrounded by a fiord. No one will say anything. That silence — shared — is one of the group's defining memories.

EVENING

Last night in New Zealand. Group dinner. Go around the table: one thing NZ gave you that you didn't expect.

DAYS 25–28

South Island → Auckland → Bali

TRANSIT

FINAL NZ DAYS + DEPARTURE

DAY 25

Final free day. Group can do anything — one last adventure, one last swim, one last meal. Someone will suggest one more cold plunge. Everyone will go in.

DAY 26

Drive to Auckland. Group evening — acknowledge what the month was. No formal ceremony. Just honest conversation about what happened and what's ahead.

DAYS 27–28

Fly to Bali. Long travel day. Arrive in Amed, east coast. Head directly to the quieter Bali. Do not go to Kuta.

MONTH TWO · DAYS 29–57 · PHASE 2: ENCOUNTER

Bali + Thailand

Amed · Ubud · Uluwatu · Chiang Mai

Two very different encounters with mastery. Bali teaches what stillness feels like. Thailand teaches what fire feels like. The group needs both.

DURATION	BALI	THAILAND
29 Days	2 Weeks · Water, Stillness, Breathwork	2 Weeks · Muay Thai Full Camp

CAPSTONE

Optional Group Fight Night

WEEKS 5–6 Bali — Water, Stillness, Sacred

The ocean teaches what silence can't

DAYS 30–32

Amed, East Bali

FREEDIVING

AIDA FREEDIVING COURSE — GROUP GOES UNDERWATER

DAY 30 – THEORY

Group AIDA Level 1/2 freediving course begins. Theory: how breathing actually works, breath-hold physics, equalizing. Your lungs have twice the capacity you normally use. The ocean rewards stillness. School never taught you how to cultivate it.

DAY 31 – OPEN WATER

First real dives — 10 meters on a single breath. Under the surface: your own heartbeat and nothing else. No past, no future. The quietest place the group has ever been. Some people cry after their first real freedive. Both are fine. The group holds space for each other.

DAY 32 – DEPTH

AIDA certification dives — 15–20m target depth. The group is doing something on a single breath that the mind said was impossible three days ago. Remember this. The mind is a liar about limits.

> THE GROUP FREEDIVING EXPERIENCE
>
> There is something profound about a group of people going underwater together in silence. The debrief after certification dives is always one of the most honest conversations of the whole program. Something about the depth brings things to the surface.

DAYS 33–34

Amed

WATER

REEF CLEANUP + CLIFF JUMPING + NIGHT DIVE

DAY 33

Group reef cleanup dive with local dive shops. The group was given something extraordinary by this ocean. Give something back. Two hours underwater removing what doesn't belong. Then: cliff jumping at Blue Lagoon — pure joy after the seriousness of the cleanup.

DAY 34

Night dive in Amed — one of the best night dive spots in Asia. The reef transforms after dark. Bioluminescence, sleeping fish, octopus. The group goes underwater at night together. This sounds terrifying to most people. It is also extraordinary.

EVENING

Group dinner in Amed village. Eat what the locals eat. Eat together.

DAY 35

Ubud

BREATHWORK

GROUP WIM HOF BREATHWORK — INTERNAL POWER

MORNING

Group breathwork session with a practitioner — Wim Hof method. The group breathes together in a way that produces physiological states none of you have experienced before. Strange things happen in a breathwork session. Even stranger things happen when you do it in a room of 15 people simultaneously.

THE REVELATION

You can change how you feel from the inside. This is the lesson underneath the technique. You have been waiting for the outside world — the right circumstances, relationship, achievement — to make you feel a certain way. This session shows the group that the power was always internal.

AFTERNOON

Free afternoon in Ubud. Explore, eat, move, recover. Let the morning integrate. The town is full of interesting things and interesting people.

DAY 36

Uluwatu

SACRED

ULUWATU — PRE-DAWN SURF, 1,000-YEAR-OLD TEMPLE

PRE-DAWN

Group drives to Uluwatu at 5 AM. Cold ocean. Watch the sunrise from the cliff. A 1,000-year-old Hindu temple sits above one of the most consistent surf breaks in the world.

DAWN SURF

Group surfs Uluwatu at first light. The temple is above you. The Indian Ocean is beneath you. Sacred and physical are the same thing here. This is Bali's lesson at full volume.

EVENING

Kecak fire dance at Uluwatu temple at sunset — 100 male voices, no instruments, just human bodies making something enormous. Group watches together. Let it land.

DAYS 37–38

Bali

VOLCANO + VILLAGE

VOLCANO SUNRISE HIKE + VILLAGE DAY

DAY 37 — MT. BATUR

Night hike up Mt. Batur — an active volcano. 2 AM start, headlamps, dark trail, summit at sunrise. The crater edge with the whole group at sunrise over a volcanic caldera lake. Eat breakfast on the rim. This is one of the group's top three memories.

DAY 38 — MUNDUK

Munduk mountain village — rice terraces, waterfalls, mist. The group spends the day with a local family: help with the morning, walk the terraces, eat together. Find an elder and ask: "What do you know now that you wish you'd known at our age?"

EVENING

Return to base. Easy evening. The group has been going hard. Slow dinner, early sleep.

DAY 39

Bali

SOLO

SOLO DAY — BALI ON YOUR OWN TERMS

FULL DAY

Each person has the full day alone. Bali is enormous — go wherever. Temple, surf break, rice terrace, café, forest, beach. No plan. No group. Just you in a country that rewards presence.

THE OPTION

Some people will use the day to be genuinely alone. Some will explore the town, talk to strangers, eat in a local warung for three hours. Some will find a quiet beach and do nothing for six hours. All of it is right.

EVENING

Group dinner. Bali debrief: what did this island show you that NZ didn't?

DAY 40

Bali → Thailand

DEPARTURE

FINAL BALI DAY + FLY TO CHIANG MAI

MORNING

Final ocean morning together. Last group cold plunge in the Bali sea. Then: pack up. The group is a different thing than it was in NZ. Bali changed something quieter.

TRAVEL

Fly to Chiang Mai, Thailand. Tomorrow the group checks into a Muay Thai camp and everything changes again.

ARRIVAL

Arrive Chiang Mai evening. Early to bed. The camp starts at 6 AM tomorrow and it does not care about jet lag.

WEEKS 7–8

Muay Thai Camp — Fire

Train like fighters. Become something different.

> This is not about becoming a fighter. It is about two weeks in the presence of something that requires your complete and total honesty. In the ring, every social mask falls away. What remains is real. The group sees each other without the masks. That changes everything.

DAYS 41–55

Muay Thai Camp, Chiang Mai

CAMP

14-DAY MUAY THAI CAMP — FULL IMMERSION

GROUP DAILY SCHEDULE — EVERY DAY, NO EXCEPTIONS

06:00 AM	Group 5km run — together, no one left behind
06:30 AM	Shadow boxing · Heavy bag · Pad work with trainers
08:30 AM	Conditioning — 200 sit-ups, 200 push-ups, skip
09:00 AM	Breakfast as a group — eat, rest, recover
11:30 AM	REST — mandatory, non-negotiable
04:00 PM	Technique, clinch, and sparring — 2 hours
Evening	Group dinner, stories from the day, early sleep

DAYS 1–3: THE SHOCK

The group's body revolts. Everything hurts. Trainers show no mercy — because they see what the group can do. Day 3 morning: half the group questions everything. Train anyway. This is what the program is built on.

DAYS 4–6: THE WALL

Almost everyone wants to quit. This is the exact moment. The group helps each other through it — showing up to the 6 AM run for the person next to you when you wouldn't for yourself. The group IS the program at this point.

DAYS 7–14: INSIDE IT

Day 7 — something shifts. The group stops fighting the training and starts moving inside it. Sparring begins in earnest. The group fights each other. The group fights strangers. The group sees each other without any masks at all.

THE SPARRING REALITY

When the group sparrs each other — when your friend's glove touches your face — something changes. You see each other as you actually are, not as you present. Nothing in this program builds trust inside the group faster than shared physical honesty. The friendships that come out of these 14 days are the ones that last.

DAY 47

Doi Inthanon NP

REST DAY

CAMP REST DAY — DOI INTHANON PEAK + MARKET NIGHT

DAY

Thailand's highest peak — group hike. Cool at the summit, which after a week of heat and two-a-day training feels like a gift from the universe. Walk slowly. Let bodies rest while still moving.

EVENING

Chiang Mai night markets. The group eats everything. Street food tour. Try things you can't identify. This is the relief valve the camp needs — beautiful food, alive city, no training.

THE PURPOSE

You need the dirt and the view. The camp is the dirt. The mountain is the view from above it. Both are necessary.

DAY 53

Muay Thai Camp

SERVICE

TRAIN THE YOUNG ONES

AFTERNOON

Most camps have local kids training. The group spends the afternoon holding pads, teaching footwork, working with the youngest fighters. The group learned this 12 days ago. Already they can teach someone else. Notice what that means.

THE SHIFT

Some of these kids have nothing except the discipline this camp provides. The group has been training to find something. These kids train because it's the best thing in their world. Let that land.

EVENING

Cook dinner with the trainers' families. Eat together. Ask them about their lives. This is an encounter — people who built entire lives around a craft. What does that look like from the inside?

DAY 55

Muay Thai Camp

FIGHT NIGHT

GROUP FIGHT NIGHT — WALK INTO THE RING

THE EVENT

The group organizes a fight night — white collar bouts, anyone who wants to fight fights. The whole group watches. Trainers referee. Local fighters invited. This is a celebration of what the group built in two weeks, not a test of who's best.

THE WALK

The walk to the ring — 30 meters — is the entire camp compressed into a moment. Every story your mind tells about who you are gets tested. The group cheers every person who walks in. That includes the ones who are terrified. Especially the ones who are terrified.

AFTER

Camp celebration. Everyone. The group is something completely different than it was 14 days ago. Acknowledge that.

DAYS 56–57

Chiang Mai → Medellín

DEPARTURE

FINAL THAILAND DAY + TRAVEL TO COLOMBIA

DAY 56

Last morning at camp. Say goodbye to trainers properly — tell them specifically what they showed you. Name it. A good thank you is specific. Group lunch together in Chiang Mai. Tell the stories of the camp. There are many.

DAY 57

Travel to Medellín, Colombia. Long journey. Use the flight — sleep, talk, let the camp integrate. You are entering Phase 3. Everything found now gets given away.

ARRIVE

Land in Medellín. The group is 57 days in and utterly different than the people who landed in Auckland. Colombia will show you what you've become.

MONTH THREE · DAYS 58–90 · PHASE 3: RETURN

Colombia + Costa Rica

Medellín · Coffee Region · Amazon · Costa Rica

The group has been stripped and rebuilt. Now they give something back — and then they lead other people through what they just survived.

DURATION	THEME	COLOMBIA
33 Days	Service, Leadership, Building	2 Weeks · Adventure + Service + Amazon

CAPSTONE

7-Day Prototype Program

WEEKS 9–10 Colombia

The country that refused to be defined by its worst moment

DAY 58

Medellín

ARRIVAL

MEDELLÍN — THE CITY THAT REBUILT ITSELF

MORNING

First thing: cable car to the comunas — the hillside neighborhoods that were the epicenter of the violence 30 years ago. Stand there. Look at the city below. Read about what happened here and what they chose to build instead. Let the story land before you do anything else.

AFTERNOON

Walk the real city. El Centro, the Metrocable barrios, the Botero Plaza. Talk to people. Ask about their city. Colombians talk about their city with a specific kind of pride that comes from having rebuilt it themselves.

EVENING

Group dinner in a local restaurant. The question on the table: "What story are we refusing to be defined by? What are we building instead?"

DAY 59

San Félix, Medellín

AIR

GROUP PARAGLIDING + ROCK CLIMBING

MORNING

Group paragliding from San Félix — one by one, the Andes valley opens beneath each person. The city below is tiny. Everything that felt enormous is not. This is elevation as perspective, repeated 15 times for 15 different people.

AFTERNOON

Rock climbing with local Medellín climbers — not expats, locals. Find the community, train with them. The city was built on hillsides; these people have turned the whole city into a vertical training ground.

EVENING

Medellín at night. The city is alive. Let the group explore it — the nightlife, the food, the people, the music. This city knows how to celebrate the fact that it is still alive. Be part of that.

DAY 60

Medellín

URBAN

PARKOUR + URBAN MOVEMENT + MOTORBIKE EXPLORE

MORNING

Full day with Medellín's freerunning/parkour community. The city was built on hillsides — movement through it is inherently vertical and creative. These practitioners have turned the whole city into a training ground. One day with them changes how you see every city.

AFTERNOON

Group motorbike ride through Medellín — local guides, smaller roads, real neighborhoods. The city from a motorbike is a different city entirely.

EVENING

Local market dinner. Eat what the city eats.

DAYS 61–63

Medellín Youth Programs

SERVICE

THREE DAYS WITH MEDELLÍN YOUTH — SHOW UP, COME BACK

DAY 61 – EARN TRUST

Find a Medellín youth movement program (Corpoarte, Somos Identidad, or similar). The group designs and leads a morning session: movement, games, challenge, debrief. Day 1: you are new. Earn trust. Don't assume it.

DAY 62 – COME BACK

Return. The return is where trust lives. Anyone can show up once. Coming back on Day 2 is where the relationship actually starts. The kids know who came back. They always know.

DAY 63 – LEAVE SOMETHING

Leave them something they can use after you're gone — a workout, a challenge, a system they can run themselves. Don't make yourself necessary. Make yourself redundant. That's the measure of real service.

> SERVICE RULE
>
> Ask the program coordinator what they actually need — not what feels good to offer. Provide that, even if it's less exciting than what you planned. The distinction is the difference between service and charity tourism.

DAYS 64–66

Eje Cafetero

MOUNTAIN

COFFEE REGION — BIKE THE ANDES, SLEEP ON A FARM

DAY 64

Group mountain bike ride through the coffee region — steep Andean roads, impossible green views, villages that look unchanged for 50 years. The bikes fight the altitude. So do you.

DAYS 65–66

3 days on a working coffee finca. Wake at 5 AM with the farmers. Walk the rows before sunrise. Help with whatever the season requires. The people who grow the coffee that the world drinks wake before dawn every day because the work matters. Spend two days living that.

EVENING

Finca evenings — hammocks, stars, the sound of the valley. Let the group be quiet for once. The coffee region earns its silence.

DAYS 67–70

Colombian Amazon

AMAZON

AMAZON — JUNGLE, RIVER, SMALLNESS WITHOUT FEAR

TRAVEL + ARRIVAL

Fly to Leticia. Everything changes. Air, sound, temperature — all of it different. Travel by river boat to a small indigenous community. This is not an eco-lodge. This is someone's home. The group is a guest. Behave accordingly.

DAYS 68–69

Dawn river fishing with the community. Jungle walk with an indigenous guide who knows this place 500 years deep. Night sounds of the Amazon — the group sleeps in open-air shelters surrounded by one of the most complex ecosystems on earth. Group canoe race on the river. Swimming with river dolphins if they appear.

DAY 70

Solo afternoon — each person has 3 hours alone at the river. Just the water, the jungle, themselves. The Amazon gives you one specific feeling nothing else on this trip does: smallness without fear. You are one creature among millions. And it makes you feel more real, not less.

DAY 71

In Transit

TRANSIT

AMAZON → COSTA RICA — THE TURN

TRAVEL DAY

Return from the Amazon, fly toward Costa Rica. The group has 20 days left. Phase 3 is completing. The conversation on this flight is different from every other transit day — people are thinking about what comes after.

THE TURN

This is where the program shifts from receiving to building. The group has been stripped, challenged, served, humbled, and rebuilt. Costa Rica is where all of that becomes something they give to others.

ARRIVE

Costa Rica evening. Tomorrow starts the final push.

WEEKS 11–12

Costa Rica — Synthesis + Build

Everything found gets given away

DAYS 72–76

La Fortuna · Pacuare · Pacific

FINAL WILD

LAST PHYSICAL PUSH — NOTICE WHAT CHANGED

DAY 72

Arenal Volcano hike — active, steaming, surrounded by rainforest. Hot springs at the base after. The earth alive beneath your feet.

DAY 73 – PACUARE

Rio Pacuare — one of the top 10 whitewater rivers in the world. Class IV. Group rafts. Compare this to Shotover in Week 3. The group that got off the Shotover and the group getting on the Pacuare are not the same group. Let the river prove it.

DAYS 74–76

Canyoneering into waterfalls · Cloud forest zip lines · Pacific coast — surf, freedive, long group ocean swims. The last stretch of wild before the prototype begins. Make it count.

THE QUESTION FOR THIS WEEK

The group that shows up on the Pacuare is 73 days different from the one that showed up at the Shotover. What changed? Name it specifically. The answer is the content of the world school.

DAYS 77–79

Costa Rica

SYNTHESIS

BUILD WEEK — DESIGN THE PROTOTYPE TOGETHER

DAY 77

Group planning session: design the 7-day prototype program that the group will lead in Days 84–90. Everyone contributes. What experiences from the 90 days were most transformative? How do you compress them into a week? What does someone new need most?

DAY 78

Logistics: recruit participants (people the group met across 90 days), set up location, plan each day, assign leadership roles within the group. The group that ran from leaders in NZ is now dividing leadership responsibility for 7 days.

DAY 79

Run through. Practice the opening circle. Practice the debrief. Talk about what the group is trying to give. Not the activities — what feeling are they trying to create? That's the world school curriculum.

DAYS 80–83

Costa Rica

PREP

FINAL FREE DAYS — BEFORE THE PROTOTYPE

DAYS 80–81

Free time. The last unstructured days before the group becomes guides. Use them. Surf, explore, eat, sleep, exist without agenda. The program gives you space before it asks the hardest thing: be responsible for someone else's transformation.

DAY 82

Final prep. Participants confirmed. Location ready. Each person knows their role. Group dinner the night before — acknowledge what's happening. Tomorrow the group is the guide.

DAY 83

Participants arrive tomorrow. Tonight: early sleep. The group has 7 days to give everything it found.

DAYS 84–90 · THE WORLD SCHOOL BEGINS

The Prototype

The group becomes the guide. 5–10 new people. 7 days. Everything the group lived, given away.

DAY 84
DAY ONE

Arrival + The Opening

New participants arrive. The group welcomes them — not as a program, as people. Cold plunge as the first shared thing. Opening circle, no phones: one sentence each on why they came. The group holds the circle. This is the first time the group has been on this side of it.

DAY 85
DAY TWO

Physical Challenge Day

Group designs and leads a challenging physical day — hike, swim, something that pushes new participants to their edge. The group members who struggled in NZ Week 1 are now the ones holding space for others who struggle. They know exactly what to say because they remember how it felt.

DAY 86
DAY THREE

Service Together

Both groups — the 90-day group and the new participants — do service together with a local Costa Rican youth organization. The 90-day group leads. They show the new participants what service without ego looks like. They learned it the hard way. Now they teach it by example.

DAY 87
DAY FOUR

Adrenaline + Honesty

Canyoneering, cliff jumping, or whatever the group designed — something that requires full presence. The 90-day group goes first and goes hard. They model what it looks like to move toward fear instead of away from it. The new participants watch. Then they go.

DAY 88
DAY FIVE

Solo Day

Everyone — both groups — gets 4 hours alone in nature. No phones. Including the 90-day group. This is their last solo of the program. The evening circle is the most honest one of the week. It always is. The group facilitates it. They know what questions to ask.

DAY 89
DAY SIX

Create + Share

Everyone creates something that reflects who they actually are — a letter, a drawing, movement, anything. Then shares it. The 90-day group goes first. They show what it looks like to be real in front of people. They didn't know how to do this in NZ Week 1. They do now.

DAY 90
DAY SEVEN

The Closing Circle

Final cold plunge together. Closing circle. Three questions — everyone answers, both groups: "Who did you arrive as? Who are you leaving as? What are you doing differently?" The 90-day group answers last. They have the most to say. After the last person speaks: one full minute of silence. Then it's done. The world school has its first proof of concept.

FINANCIALS

What It Costs. What It Returns.

Per-person costs for a 10–20 person cohort. Group pricing dramatically reduces individual costs from solo travel. The prototype program at the end generates real income and proves the model.

PER PERSON (GROUP OF 15)

~$14k

Group pricing on accommodation, transport, and activities reduces individual cost significantly vs. solo.

PER PERSON (SOLO VERSION)

~$20k

Individual cost if doing this without a group. Still cheaper than most US university semesters.

PROTOTYPE INCOME

$5–8k

10 participants at $500–800 each. Partially offsets final month costs and proves the world school model.

Group Program Costs (Per Person)

International flights	$3,000–4,000
Accommodation (90 nights, group)	$2,200–3,500
Food (90 days)	$1,800–2,800
Muay Thai camp (14 days)	$900–1,400
Freediving course (group rate)	$380–550
NZ adrenaline (bungee, skydive, etc.)	$1,800–3,000
Bali, Thailand, LATAM activities	$1,200–2,500
Travel insurance (90 days)	$500–800
Gear + equipment	$600–1,000
Vaccines + health	$300–500

World School Revenue Model

Program fee per participant	$15,000–22,000
Cohort size (group of 15)	15 people
Total cohort revenue	$225,000–330,000
Costs (accommodation, guides, activities)	~$140,000
Gross margin per cohort	~$90,000–190,000

Year 1: Do the trip with a founding group. Document everything. Run the prototype. Cost offset by group contributions.

Year 2: First paid cohort at full program price. Break-even to profitable.

Emergency fund	$1,500–2,000
Total Per Person	$14,000–22,000

Year 3+: Two cohorts per year. Guide training program. The world school scales.

WHAT COMES AFTER

The World School

THE GAP begins as one group's story. It becomes something larger when others recognize themselves in it — and want in. Every person who completes the program carries the question forward. Every cohort that runs it proves it can scale without losing depth.

YEAR ONE

The Founding Group

10–20 people who do it first and document everything. The story they come back with is the marketing, the curriculum, and the proof of concept. Their prototype participants are the first wave.

YEAR TWO

The First Paid Cohort

First cohort at full program pricing. The founding group's experience is now the curriculum. They are the guides. The infrastructure exists across three countries. The world school has its first real intake.

YEAR THREE

The School at Scale

Two cohorts per year. Guide training — graduates of the program who want to lead future cohorts. THE GAP multiplies not by losing depth but by multiplying the number of people who carry the depth.

"Most people will look at this and say no.
That's the point.

This is for the ones who feel the gap between who they are and who they're pretending to be — and are finally ready to do something wild about it.

90 days. Three countries. 10–20 people chasing the same feeling.

Are you in?"
